Sunday's 'Spin For A Cancer Free Generation' Raises Funds, Awareness

Cancer Free Generation (CFG), the young leadership division of Tower Cancer Research Foundation (TCRF), will host its second "Spin for a Cancer Free Generation" from 2-3 p.m., Sunday, at SoulCycle, 9465 Wilshire Blvd.

Nearly 3 million children are living with a parent with cancer and members of CFG believe the psychological and social needs of these invisible victims are dramatically neglected. The organization has set out to raise cancer research funds and awareness about young people and their families facing cancer in Southern California.

Founded in 2013, CFG's executive committee consists of professionals working in the fields of finance, law, real estate, entertainment, technology, event planning, and medicine.
